Double-Take® Software Presents Disaster Recovery Planning at the 2008
Business Continuity & Corporate Security Show

Company to Address Protecting Vital Server Operations and Failover Systems at Work

Southborough, Mass. – March 17, 2008 - Double-Take® Software (NASDAQ: DBTK), a leading provider of continuous data protection and recovery software, announced today that Mike Denapoli, a Double-Take Software systems engineer, will present at the 2008 Business Continuity & Corporate Security Conference March 18-19 in New York.

Disaster Recovery has become an integral part of business continuity planning and it is vital that IT managers have the ability to rapidly restore business critical data in the event of an outage. Denapoli's presentation, "Protecting Vital Server Operations: Failover Systems at Work," will address key strategies IT managers can use in disaster recovery planning. In addition, Greg Saraydarian, founder and CEO of Averweb, will discuss how his company leveraged Double-Take® from Double-Take Software for data protection and recoverability.
